LESC is a publicly funded school located in the historical town of Clervaux, in the North of Luxembourg. École Internationale Edward Steichen, as a branch of LESG, is an accredited European School and follows the European Schools' curriculum. We aim to educate our students for the challenges of the 21st century by developing our pupils, both academically and non-academically, into well-rounded critical thinkers and well-educated lifelong learners.

If you want to join a growing school and contribute to our vision of creating a school that prepares young people for the challenges of the 21st century, we are keen to hear from you.
